Dear Friends,

May the joy and hope of Easter be with all of you!

As Daughters of Wisdom, we strive to be faithful to our mission that is “to bring the message of Jesus, Incarnate Wisdom, to people experiencing injustice, violence, poverty and oppression, especially women and children.”

As an international congregation, the Daughters of Wisdom are committed to working with one another across borders. One expression of this is forming intercultural communities. Intercultural living, while incorporating a deep understanding and respect for all cultures, calls us to foster a genuine exchange of ideas and culture that allows the development of deep mutual relationships. It involves a growth-filled exchange between those from the host country and those from other countries. In Huntington Station, New York we have formed an intercultural community with two Sisters from the United States and two Sisters from South America (Colombia and Peru). The focus of this intercultural community is mission. The Sisters are ministering to the Hispanic immigrant community in Huntington Station. They are involved in the parish life of St. Hugh of Lincoln Church, and in other outreach efforts with special attention to human needs, life-giving relationships, justice issues and building up of the faith. The Sisters offer support and encouragement to the local Hispanic community including assistance in learning English.

We ask for your generous support of this new ministry steeped in the tradition of the Daughters of Wisdom that favors the development of the whole person, embracing differences and cultural diversity so as to make visible the face of Incarnate Wisdom in today's global reality. Be assured of our prayer for you and your families during this holy Easter season.

Gratefully yours,

Sister Cathy Sheehan, D.W.
