

SEW-Producing Gifts That Help Change The World

From October through the middle of December of every year, the Salvadoran Enterprises for Women's (SEW) mission includes celebrating and promoting the women owned businesses that have been established in El Salvador by bringing their wares to Alternative Christmas Giving Fairs hosted by parishes and schools in Baltimore, Annapolis and Silver Spring, Maryland.

These fairs offer SEW merchandisers a venue to sell their unique and meaningful gifts in the spirit of Fair Trade. It also gives shoppers an opportunity through their purchases to support the talents and treasures of women owned businesses in El Salvador. This, in the end, will help to pave the way out of poverty and into economic self-sufficiency for these women -right in their own country.

Now in its tenth year, SEW allows women to conceptualize a business, helps produce a business plan, and lends assistance in establishing the business in the marketplace. Pictured is SEW Executive Assistant, Sr. Marie Chiodo, DW (R) who discusses women's empowerment with Sr. Marie McCarthy, SP, (L) Associate Director for Program Development at LCWR.
